

Jane Irwin

Jane Irwin received her BFA in drawing and painting from Mount Allison University in 1977. She has been a professional artist since 1980, working in partnership with her sister, Kathryn Irwin, to create commissioned glass artworks for specific sites, including churches, schools, public spaces and private homes. Drawing and painting have always been an integral part of her artistic explorations. Found objects are often the beginning point from which the works evolve. References to nature and to drawing itself seep into the process. The end results present recognizable but mysterious imagery that invites contemplation and interpretation.
